OUTLOOK SOME BRIGHTER REAL PLANS ARE SECRET HUERTA IN A NEW POSE

JOHN LIND SAFE IN MEXICO CITY

President Wilson's Representative Will Not Be Molested.

HUERTA PROMISES PROTECTION

Strict Secrecy Maintained Regarding the Course of Action of the American Envoy — Washington Looking Forward to the Possibility of a Favorable Turn of Affairs in the Mexican Republic.

Washington, Aug. 11.—There was a distinct clearing of the atmosphere in Washington as regards the personal safety of John Lind, the president's special emissary to Mexico, but no developments that indicate any satisfactory progress toward the realization of the Wilson administration's hope for a peaceful settlement of the differences in the southern republic.

The statement of the Huerta government assuring the United States that everything possible would be done to promote the safety of Mr. Lind and to insure his freedom from annoyance has greatly relieved the fear which all administration officials had entertained that the president's personal representative might come to bodily harm on his mission.

Mr. Lind arrived Sunday at the Mexican capital. While the president has mapped out a distinct course of action, about which strict secrecy is being maintained, it is known that the instructions to be sent Mr. Lind from time to time will depend largely on developments in the Mexican capital in the next few weeks.

While the president in his talk with the members of the senate foreign relations committee disclaimed any definite plan for dealing with the Mexican situation, it became clearer what the president's hopes are and how he is looking forward to the possibility of a favorable turn to affairs in Mexico. President Wilson has only one definite step in mind at present, and that is the notification of the Huerta government that the United States is not able to extend recognition to that government.

Mr. Lind will make all his recommendations to Charge O'Shaughnessy, so that whatever representations are transmitted by the latter to the Huerta government will differ in no way from the notes, the American government has hitherto addressed to the de facto authorities in the Mexican capital. Mr. Lind's connection with them, it was stated, would not be apparent. His mission, it was explained, is to substitute unofficially for Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, whose personal views of the Mexican controversy were so pronounced as to make it embarrassing for the administration here to communicate them through him.

Further enlightenment as to the errand of Mr. Lind and the policy the president has formed came from Senator Bacon, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, who declared that President Wilson was sharing a great responsibility in the present situation and had the hearty support and co-operation not only of the foreign relations committee, but of the members of the senate generally, regardless of party lines.

LIND IN MEXICO CITY

American Envoy Declines to Discuss His Mission.

Mexico City, Aug. 11.—Ex-Governor Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, and his wife reached Mexico City last night. Mr. Lind declined to discuss his probable actions here or the nature of the proposals he is commissioned to make through Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy to President Huerta.

MISS PANKHURST BACK IN PRISON

Leads Mob In Attack on Ministerial Residences.

London, Aug. 11.—Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, who was released from Holloway jail recently after a hunger strike, is back in the prison after making a vain attempt with a band of followers, men and women, to storm the ministerial residences in Downing street. Five other women and 16 men were arrested for their part in the riot.

Miss Pankhurst appeared unexpectedly at a meeting of opponents of the "cat and mouse" law, under which suffragettes are released from prison when their health is impaired and sent back promptly to finish another part of the sentence when restored to health. Miss Pankhurst shouted "Down with the speakers!" A band of East End toughs responded to her call and she urged her followers to make a rush on the ministerial residences. Hundreds followed her. Just as the militants reached the foreign office a force of police emerged from an ambush and blocked Whitehall. A sharp fight followed, in which the followers of Miss Pankhurst were soon worsted and their leader taken to Holloway jail.

BIG JEWELRY ROBBERY

DOCK COLLAPSES AND CAPSIZES STEAMER IN THE FIRST WRECK OF THE PANAMA CANAL

This curious shipwreck occurred in the port of Balboa, the Pacific mouth of the Panama canal. The steamer Newport of the Pacific mail company was tied up when the old wooden dock gave way because of the pressure due to a fill which had been made behind it. The dock capsize the ship, and two great cranes tumbled on top of the wreck, pinning it to the bottom of the bay. All the passengers and crew were ashore at the time. This is the first wreck in the Panama canal. Already work has been started on the huge canal terminal docks, which are being built of steel and concrete.

FIRST REAL TEST ON BANKING BILL

Democratic House Caucus Takes It Up This Afternoon.

OUTCOME EAGERLY AWAITED

Three Democratic Members of the Currency Committee Join in Opposing Chairman Glass' Favorable Report On the Measure—Wool and Sugar Schedules of the Tariff Bill Up in the Senate This Week.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The house Democratic caucus on the currency bill began at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and is expected to run through several days. Representatives Ragsdale of South Carolina, Neely of Kansas and Eagle of Texas, all Democratic members of the banking and currency committee, will join in opposing Chairman Glass' favorable report on the bill. Representative Wingo of Arkansas, another member, also will oppose certain features in the caucus, although he has given his support to the general features of the bill.

The president has been assured by his advisers in congress that the measure can be passed in the house without material change, and he has not altered his purpose to insist upon currency legislation at the present special session. The outcome of the house caucus is being awaited with keen interest because of the anticipation of a determined effort to delay consideration of currency reform and to make important changes in the bill. The efforts of the president and Secretary McAdoo to align sentiment in the senate in support of immediate currency legislation have been less successful than in the house. However, if the Democratic leaders succeed in lining up a strong majority in the house caucus in support of the bill and secure the approval of the measure without change, it is hoped that the effect upon the senate will

DISASTROUS STORM VISITS QUAKER CITY

HAVOC WROUGHT BY HIGH WINDS

LIVES AND PROPERTY LOST

Two Hundred People Caught in the Ruins of a Pavilion Leveled in Fairmont Park—Residence Streets and Parks Stripped of Trees and Huge Windows Smashed—Surrounding Country Also Devastated.

Philadelphia, Aug. 11.—The worst electrical and windstorm that has visited this city in years left a wide path of desolation in its wake and killed five persons and injured at least 200.

The worst accident reported was in Fairmont park, where a band pavilion near George's hall collapsed, catching at least 200 persons in the ruins. They had taken refuge from the storm in the pavilion. A baby is dead and 15 injured persons are in the local hospitals. More than 100 injured managed to drag themselves to their homes. Only the fact that the pavilion was of light construction, without real heavy joists, prevented a terrible catastrophe.

A large sightseeing automobile, carrying a crowd of picnickers, was being pushed to its utmost to carry the gay merry-makers under cover. The wind blew the flowing necktie of the driver into his face. He lost control for an instant and the big machine was thrown into a tree. Several occupants were injured.

Matty Greiner was drowned at Port Richmond. Her male companions were endeavoring to get ashore when the gust seemed to lift the woman bodily from the boat. Her body has not been recovered. Her companions are under arrest.

The entire length of Market street is laid waste. Large trees that have withstood the storms of years are stretched across the streets. In many parts of the city trolley service is tied up. Telegraph and telephone poles are down on all sides. Large plate-glass windows in downtown stores were smashed like so much tissue paper.

A tower of the Pennsylvania railway station was jarred from its support, and huge blocks of granite were hurled into the street. Fortunately no person was hit. All the parks of the city are devastated. Gigantic trees were broken like pipestems. The entire reserve force of the police department was called out and roped off dangerous thoroughfares.

TOWN BOMBARDED

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 11.—An unexpected bombardment of Empalme, Mexico, was occasioned by an accident to Didier Masson's aeroplane. The engine suddenly stopped while he was flying over Guaymas harbor. Masson volplaned to shore, landing in the Mexican section of the American railroad settlement.

The French aviator was caught on land within reach of the federal cannon for the first time since he began dropping bombs around the gunboats Guerrero and Tampico. For an hour and a half shrapnel shot was scattered over Empalme, the gunboats being joined by the federal shore batteries. The general offices of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, other railroad property and many private buildings were damaged.

All noncombatants fled to the hills. Masson was believed to have escaped and no foreigners were reported injured in official advices received from Empalme.

SHOES OF MURDERER PAYNE WERE STOLEN FROM A CASE SHIPPED TO INDIANA DEALER

Investigation of Columbus "Fence" Where Payne Claims Shoes Were Purchased, May Be Made.

SHOES TAKEN FROM LOT CONTAINING FOUR CASES

West Lebanon, Indiana Dealer Is Still Looking For Shoes Worn by Payne on Night He Committed Crime Which May Send Him To The Electric Chair—Mystery Of Lost Shipment may be Solved.

A decidedly interesting story has been unearthed in connection with the pair of shoes which led to the apprehension of Delbert Payne, murderer of George W. Duffee.

When the shoes were found and Payne later arrested, he admitted buying a pair of Douglass shoes such as those found, saying he had purchased them in Zanesville, Chief McCoy immediately wrote to the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company of Brockton, Mass., informing them of the circumstances, giving the stock number of the shoes found, and asking whether the shoes had been shipped to a Zanesville dealer.

In the meantime Payne confessed to the murder and stated that he had purchased the shoes from a second hand dealer on third street in Columbus.

Since then Chief McCoy has received a letter from the Douglas shoe company expressing surprise at locating the shoes here, and it developed that the shoes were from a shipment of four cases made to the Groves Dry Goods Company of West Lebanon, Indiana, and were shipped on June 21st.

It is believed that the shipment was stolen somewhere in Ohio, probably in Columbus, and that the shoes were disposed of to a "fence" in Columbus by the man who stole them. It is also thought probable that Payne stole the shoes from the car while the shipment was in Columbus or some other city.

The stock number of the shoes which were worn by the murderer on the night of the crime, is 322166, and the case numbers of the shipment were 582 and 585.

The communication from the Douglas company says in part:

"We had two letters from the Groves Dry Goods company stating that the shipment has not been received and although we have traced twice, up to the present time we have not succeeded in locating, and since receiving your letter we feel that the shoes have been stolen either by the man who did the murder in your city or by some other party. The shoes that he has on certainly must be from this lot."

An investigation will be made with a view to ascertaining where the "fence" is in Columbus and with the assistance of the Douglas Shoe Company the place may be broken up and some light thrown on the stolen shoes.

PAYNE RESTLESS ANXIOUS ABOUT FATE

Delbert Payne, the self-confessed murderer of George Duffee, is very restless and has little to say in his cell at the county jail.

The uppermost thought which has caused him to become restless and uneasy is the penalty for the crime committed, and he has anxiously inquired what will probably be done with him.

He does not know that death in the electric chair or life imprisonment are given as punishment for his awful crime.

ACTION OF STARTER PHILLIPS APPROVED

At the Xenia races Friday Starter Steve Phillips, Jr., fined a man named Curry for some offense, and Curry carried the case up to the National Trotting Association, calling members Stryder, Columbus, and Dr. Stone, Peoria, Ill., who made a careful examination and then commended young Phillips for his manner of starting and informed him that he did right in fining Curry.

Phillips is becoming one of the best starters in the state and will brook no repetition of offenses after he has once called the man's attention to the offense, and informs him what will happen the next time.

A "P. H." FINED GIVEN USUAL DOSE

Charles Monroe, a plain drunk, was arrested by the police Sunday and after spending the night in jail he was handed the usual fine of $5 and the costs for his offense.

CHARGED WITH STEALING CHICKENS

Paul was locked up until Monday morning, when he was arraigned in mayor's court, entering a plea of not guilty, whereupon his trial was set for Monday afternoon.

WIRELESS WAVES

SETTING UP THE VIBRATIONS.

This is the Work of the Oscillator, Which is the Electric Mouth, and its Message is Caught by the Resonator, Which is the Ear of the Apparatus.

More truly than any other telegraphic device, the wonderful wireless is a speaking voice. It makes itself heard just as the human voice does by a series of waves moving freely through space.

When I speak my voice is sent out in undulations of varying length and frequency through the air. When the wireless "speaks" its voice is conveyed by undulations in the ether, which is a more refined medium than air, carrying the waves of light and electricity as the air carries those of sound.

The oscillator of the wireless is a "mouth," sending out undulations in the ether as our mouths send out undulations in the air, and the resonator of the wireless is an "ear," catching the etherial waves as they impinge upon it, as our ears catch the atmospheric waves that strike them.

We see nothing wonderful in vocal sounds, because nature gave us in our needs one instrument to produce them and another to receive them. But she left us to find out for ourselves how to produce and receive "vocal" waves in the ether. Since we had to make the instruments that deal with them the etheric waves seem to us marvelous, although they are in principle no more marvelous than the waves of air.

Man began to use electricity for conveying intelligence by sending a current of it along a wire. He pressed a button at one end of the line, and the electric current passing along the wire induced a corresponding motion in a tapper at the other end. It was a roundabout way of employing an agency which we now know can be employed more simply and directly by throwing away the wires and making the electric waves "speak" straight through the ether.

It is true that the language employed does not consist of the words of any spoken tongue, but it is one that can be directly translated into any other known to man, and so it is the most universal of all languages.

Now, let us see how it is employed. First as to the electric "mouth." When a charge of electricity is accumulated on a "condenser" a similar but opposite charge is induced upon another condenser placed near. The air between them acts as an insulator because it is a poor conductor of electricity. But when the charge attains a certain degree of intensity the strain upon the air becomes too great, and a spark passes between the two condensers, by which equilibrium is restored between them.

The passage of this spark produces, so to speak, a shock in the ether, which, like the explosion of a gun or the utterance of a sound, sets up a series of waves in the surrounding medium, which radiate away on all sides. These waves in the ether produce the electric "voice." If the sparks are regulated in number and frequency the consequent waves are similarly regulated. An instrument for the production of such waves is called an oscillator or exciter. It is a kind of vocal apparatus for speaking through the ether instead of through the air.

But just as we should have no knowledge of the passage of sound waves if we were not provided with ears to hear them, so the electric waves would go unregarded if we had no apparatus for receiving them.

The receiving apparatus is called a resonator, or detector. It may be situated hundreds of miles from the oscillator, but it will catch the waves as they undulate to it through the ether, and it can be made to reproduce them in an audible or legible form by causing them to operate a Morse dot and dash instrument, as in ordinary telegraphy by wire.

But the electric voice and the electric ear are in some ways more manageable than the human voice and ear. We can only produce and hear air waves of a limited range of frequency, and we cannot do much to alter that limit.

Sound waves vibrating less than forty times a second or more than 40,000 times are inaudible to us. But electric waves varying in frequency from a few hundred up to hundreds of millions a second can be rendered perceptible, and it is also possible so to construct the instruments that they will send forth and receive particular ranges of waves and be mute and deaf to others.

Then the distance over which the electric waves can be detected is almost infinitely greater than that of ordinary sound waves. It takes a strong voiced man to make his voice audible across a little river, but, as everybody knows, the electric cry of a ship in distress can be electrically heard from the middle of the Atlantic ocean. And there are enthusiasts who predict that before very long we shall be able to speak by wireless to some other planet, if only there is somebody there to hear and understand us!—Garrett P. Serviss in Spokane Spokesman-Review.

THE LATEST FROM CAMP WASHINGTON

There are 27 boys in camp now and all are having the time of their lives.

Many of the boys fish each day but so far only one bass has been captured, and Cor. Willis is proud to hold that record. Preparations are well under way for the big camp show, which is always one of the features of camp. The Vaudeville will include many new features. Each evening about the camp fire the songs are rehearsed.

A trip through the caves was made recently and on Thursday night a snipe expedition was organized. No snipes were captured, however.

The rustic bridge across the Rattlesnake Glen, to be known as the bridge of sighs, was completed and is a splendid feat of scout engineering.

Visitors to the camp will be welcome at anytime, and those who expect to drive down in their machines will take the road to the left at the Rocky Fork Hotel, the camp is situated on the bottoms between the two Waddell cottages.

A number of visitors were entertained over Sunday.

GOOD RAIN FALLS IN SOUTHERN FAYETTE

Southern Fayette county enjoyed a good rain early Monday morning, which was of great benefit to the growing crops.

Central and northern Fayette were less fortunate and a light sprinkle was the extent of the rainfall.

Northern Fayette has been blessed with a more abundant rainfall than through the central part of the county, and while a "goose-drowner" is in demand, the corn is not suffering from a drought like it has been in other parts of the county.

FATE OF A WORLD

Its Course From Chaos to Its Hopeless Death Struggle.

THREE ACTS IN THE TRAGEDY

The First is Shown by Jupiter, the Second by the Earth and the Third by Mars. While the Moon Shows the Empty Stage After the Play is Done. No stage was ever set for such a tragedy as the planet Mars presents. It is the last act in the drama of a world's history!

The first act in such a drama consists of scenes from chaos. The huge planet Jupiter offers us a spectacle of that kind in its streaming belts of thick clouds and its whirling vapors, glowing like steam above a furnace.

The second act is represented by the earth, with its fertile crust, its cool, invigorating atmosphere and its life sustaining seas that give birth to the clouds which, condensing on the mountains, furnish the rains and set the rivers flowing.

The closing act is the role of Mars, where the seas have vanished, the atmosphere has thinned out, the rivers have disappeared, the continents have turned into deserts, and life, driven into a corner, is battling against final extinction.

That there is yet intelligent life on Mars is the universal belief of all the observers whom Mr. Lowell has gathered about him at his Flagstaff observatory, where the extraordinary phenomena of that wonderful planet are studied as nowhere else in the world.

More than that, they tell us with ever increasing emphasis that the people of Mars, compelled by necessity, have developed a command over natural forces which would seem miraculous if exhibited upon the earth.

With them it has become simply a question of brain power against the inanimate powers of nature.

They have nights and days of the same length as ours. They have seasons almost precisely corresponding with ours, except that they are each twice as long. But their oceans are dried up, no rains fall though there may be dew, and nearly all the atmospheric moisture is alternately locked up in one or the other of the polar snowcaps.

In such a situation no vegetation can flourish unless artificially stimulated by a gigantic system of irrigation. And without vegetation animal existence is impossible.

But when can the inhabitants of Mars derive the water needed for irrigation? The answer given is that they get it periodically from the melting of the polar snows. Being without seas and rivers they have no other source of supply.

On Mars the reign of universal peace must have begun ages ago, introduced not by moral or sentimental considerations, but by the necessity of uniting all the engineering skill, all the inventive powers and all the physical forces of the entire population of the planet in a common battle for life.

The only thought of their inventors is of improved means for controlling the slowly lessening supplies of moisture that once in about two of our years may be drawn away from one of the poles while the summer sunshine is dissolving its thin snows.

This universal concentration of mental energy upon a single aim is conceived as having developed upon Mars a knowledge of the hidden forces of nature such as has up to the present merely been dreamed of on the earth.

We have just begun to learn how to use electricity in the mechanic arts, but they may have unlocked the secret forces inclosed in the atoms of matter which our science has recently assured us exist without showing us how to utilize them.

Only by such suppositions can the "canals," hundreds of miles wide and thousands of miles long, be accounted for, if, as the Flagstaff observers insist, those objects are really of artificial origin. It should be said, however, that in Mr. Lowell's opinion the bands called canals are, in fact, irrigated belts.

The real canals within them are invisible, while the progressive darkening of these belts, as the polar melting increases, is due to the growth of vegetation, stimulated by the water.

After the world life drama closes there is left an empty stage, and this is represented by the moon. The lunar world has lost all its water. Its tragedy is finished. The actors are all dead. Millions of years ago there may have been a battle for life there like that which now appears to be raging on Mars. And millions of years in the future the stage of the earth will probably be set for a similar tragedy. For to the eyes of the overlooking gods (to change a little Shakespeare's figure). All the sky's a stage. And all the worlds and suns are merely actors.

Folding a Coat.

Here is the way to fold a man's coat when you want to pack it in a box or a trunk. Lay the coat out perfectly flat, right side up. Spread the sleeves out smoothly, then fold them back to the elbow until the bottoms of the cuffs are even with the collar. Fold the revers back and double the coat over, folding it on the center seam. Smooth out all wrinkles and lay it on a level surface in the trunk.

WELL KNOWN SINGER GOES TO CINCINNATI

Washington friends will be interested to learn that Miss Grace G. Gardner, formerly of New York city, has accepted the position of teacher of voice in the College of Music, of Cincinnati.

Miss Gardner gave up her vocal work in New York to be with her mother, Mrs. George Gardner, in Hillsboro and has accepted the position in Cincinnati so that she may remain within easy access to her mother.

A folder sent out by the College of Music, expresses the satisfaction with which the faculty has engaged Miss Gardner, saying: "Miss Grace G. Gardner is a singer of international reputation. She won honors in her own country, including a certificate at the College of Music, of Cincinnati, before spending a number of years abroad. She was a pupil in operatic repertoire under the celebrated Blasco in Milan and later studied with Schmidt in Berlin. In London she studied for some time with George Henschel and Romill and under their patronage and encouragement was presented as a concert artist. She enjoyed a sweeping success in her tour of England and Ireland.

In addition to her ability as singer and teacher Miss Gardner is an accomplished composer.

A Knocker That Meant Life.

So cruel were some of the punishments meted out to criminals in England centuries ago that it was small wonder the poor wretches claimed the "right of sanctuary." If they reached a church or some other privileged place the law could not touch them. A curious relic in connection with this custom exists today in the form of the quaint knocker on the door of Dugham cathedral. The applicant having hammered at the portal, one of the persons inside would inspect him through the eyes of the copper mask above the knocker and after due parley would admit the frightened criminal.

Drought Is Widespread

That great and almost always prosperous section of the country known as the corn belt, embracing the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, has for nearly a month past been literally baked and roasted in the furnace of an almost unprecedented hot spell and drought.

Crop conditions are really becoming alarming and humanity has sweltered and panted as in a moderately heated bake oven.

The heat wave has been broken once or twice with a rush of cool breezes from the north, but the drought with exception of local showers covering an exceedingly small area, proportionately, has continued unabated for weeks.

The splendid prospect for an unusually heavy corn crop is diminishing day by day. Weather report promises of relief have been, like all other "signs" in dry weather, universal failures and disappointments.

In a great measure the nation depends for its prosperity upon the success of crops in the great corn belt.

Government reports show that the drought covers a wide expanse of territory and that the heat is more intense and unendurable in that area which is generally so luxuriant with vegetation and so abundant in streams and rivers, than it is in the very heart of the desert states of Arizona and New Mexico.

Whether the designation which the man made calendar gives to the present year has any bearing on the unusual conditions is a matter of doubt with some and a matter of affirmative belief with a few.

It is quite likely, however, that nature is adhering strictly to her iron-clad rule and skimping this section in rainfall at this season to bring the average to somewhere near the usual figure at the close of the present year. Too much in March, means to make nature's great scales balance correctly, much less in August, and perhaps September.

The present dry spell is not without parallels in this section. In fact, severe as it is, there have been times in the memory of the comparatively young when it was surpassed.

We can all keep cool mentally, at least, and cheer ourselves with the knowledge that things might be much worse indeed, and that they really have been worse.

Near the Jumping Off Place

In the opinion of those not on the inside of the true state of affairs, this government has perhaps been too patient.

Those men, however, who have been vested with the responsibility and the power to act and in possession of all the facts, have taken every honorable means to avoid a clash of arms with the people whose domain lies across the Rio Grande river. A number of times has the conduct of the Mexicans been sufficient to justify this nation in a declaration of war and in sending an army into Mexico to bring order out of chaos.

Realizing the awful cost which must follow a war with Mexico, two administrations of opposite political faith, have exhibited a wonderful self control, two presidents have remained cool in the presence of extreme provocation and turned a deaf ear to the jingoes.

While conditions have apparently brought matters to the breaking point before, the outlook was never so grave as it is at the present time.

It is no longer jingoism to assert that war with Mexico and probably some other nation, which is urging Huerta on in his devilment is possible and that this nation is not required to longer endure the insults and the blusterings of a Mexican dictator who seeks, manifestly, to increase his popularity among the people of his land by insulting the United States government and the people of this nation.

It looks very much now as though President Wilson, who if possible in honor would avoid a war with Mexico, has in his cool, deliberate, unemotional way, forced the crucial issue upon the Mexicans.

Worn out with delays and disappointed by the deceit and the treachery of the Mexican officials on both sides and all sides of the anarchistic fight the President has at last reached the end of his stock of patience and put up the final test.

Without regard to party the legislative leaders approved the president's plans at a meeting Saturday night and something definite, either for better or for worse, may be expected to develop in Mexican relations very soon.

ADVICE TO HUERTA.

Mister Huerta! Mister Huerta! Don't go doin' nothin' dirty, Or you'll feel upon your pantaloons your Uncle Sammy's hand! There'll be hell among the greasers if you hire them Nipponesers— Nip your war bud with the tweezers— Better

Let
Lind
Land!

Let
Lind
Land!

Don't depend on Jap alliance to support your fool defiance, For when Nippon has been punished— which she will, complete and grand!—

You an' us must still be neighbors— Close, in handy reach of sabers! Send your peons to their labors— Better

Let
Lind

Woodrow's peaceful—like a hornet! And our banner, once you'd torn it,

Would be quite a tougher spectacle than him or us would stand. So, if often to instructions, And not anxious for abduction, Don't go stirrin' up no ruction— Just you

Let
Lind
Land!

INTERESTING BITS OF NEWS

(By John E. M. Kerr.)

Sending cardboard models of school houses by parcel post is the latest plan of the United States Bureau of Education, for aiding rural communities in the construction of suitable buildings for school purposes. The models are made to fold flat and are sent to the school committee for a limited period, for already the demand from all parts of the country exceeds the supply.

The simple statement that several million boys and girls are being prepared for the duties of citizenship in 212,000 rural school houses indicates the importance of the work.

E. H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe will continue in the same Shakespeare repertoire as they used last season. "If I were King," that Mr. Sothern found popular through several seasons will be used by him in matinees without Miss Marlowe as she plays only nights. They open in New York in September at the Manhattan theater.

That the government of the United States of Brazil shall immediately surrender the imperial crown of the former monarchy to the representative of Manuel of the House of Braganza, is the verdict of the federal courts just published. Its value is immense.

The latest military air cruiser, the Zeppelin, has just successfully accomplished the 20 hours flight demanded by the German government before purchasing the commander declared the great air vessel behaved admirably in trying circumstances. The German government hopes that by 1916 they will be in possession of eight naval airships of the Zeppelin type.

The longest train ever run on a railroad in the south recently crossed the upper panhandle of Texas on the Rock Island. It consisted of 98 loaded freight cars and what was more remarkable, that 95 of them were loaded with canteloupes, there being 1,277,669 melons in the load. Of the remaining cars, one was loaded with wool, one with cattle and one with merchandise. The long train was pulled 111 miles in five hours by one engine, including stops and delays.

The olive crop will bring $1,600,000 to California this year, according to present estimates. The crop will be double that of 1912 and 1,000,000 gallons of olives for pickling is in sight. In addition there should be about 250,000 gallons of olive oil, worth about $600,000. The pickled olives will average about a dollar a gallon. There are seven olive canneries and bottling plants in Southern California and one in the northern section.

India annually consumes not more than 20 pounds of iron per capita, compared with our 600; her gold supply does not exceed one dollar per head against our $18.35; and her yearly cotton consumption is not over 75 cents per capita, compared with our $3.25. Civilize India up to the American standard, and this great eastern empire would be in the market every year for 81,500,000 tons additional of iron products, whereas the whole world output is only 5,000,000 tons.

HISTORIC RAILROAD TRIP.

Fillmore and Webster on the Erie's First Through Train.

The completion of the Erie was the most important event in the history of railroad building down to that time—a matter of national consequence. Recognition of this fact was made when in May, 1851, a special train carried on a two days' trip through the mountains and valleys of southern New York, sweet with the leaves and blossoms of early summer, President Fillmore, four members of his cabinet and other guests of national distinction.

Daniel Webster, majestic even under his heavy burden of age and ill-health, was secretary of state in Fillmore's cabinet and rode on that first through train. He made the journey in a rocking chair lashed to a flat car, that he might lose nothing of the scenery and the sweetness of the fresh verdure. Nor was he too feeble to enjoy the great barbecue at Dunkirk, where oxen and sheep were roasted whole, pork and beans were cooked in vessels holding fifty gallons each, bread was baked in loaves ten feet long and two feet thick, so heavy that two men staggered under their burden, and the whole was served at a table 300 feet long, spread under a specially built shed along Railroad street from Deer to Lion street.

It was a great day for Dunkirk; it was a great day for New York state and the nation, and it was a great day also for President Fillmore, who found the pork and beans especially to his taste.—Wells Fargo Messenger

A GLIMPSE BACK THROUGH YEARS

(John E. M. Kerr.)

March 30, 1871.
Jasper Mills Letter:—Eds. Herald: I had a pleasant visit to our village South Plymouth, and as I passed up the road through the farms of L. C. Mallow, James Perrill, J. L. Persinger and E. L. Ford, my attention was called to the herds of fat, large cattle on their farms. These men are our most energetic and wealthy farmers. As I rode some four or five miles up Rattlesnake valley, I saw thousands of corn shocks standing, that had never been touched, and which never looked better. Our enterprising friends, J. L. Persinger and E. L. Ford, are determined to have a new church in their village, and they have contributed largely to its erection. The edifice will cost $2,500 and is to be treated to a bell, the sound of which will be heard to the uttermost parts of the township. The people of South Plymouth are looking forward to the day of their deliverance, when they will be taken out of the mud, by the completion of a turnpike through their village.

The Dead Watch Ticked.

A strong box containing family records and heirlooms was opened a few days ago to examine an old manuscript. The box had not been disturbed for several years, and the women who had taken it into a private room were surprised when they removed an old fashioned open face watch from its resting place to hear it tick loudly. This to them was evidence that the box had been tampered with. But everything was found intact and in keeping with the memorandum of contents, and they were much perplexed because of the ticking watch, which ceased its activity before the box was returned to its place. A watchmaker who was consulted said that such "momentary life" in "dead" timepieces when disturbed was not unusual.—New York Tribune.

Room Doors on the Stage.

In real life room doors always open in toward the room itself. On the stage, however, room doors, as a rule, open outward, or away from the room. Exits are one of the most difficult parts of the actor's art, and if he or she had to fumble with the handle, pull the door toward them, step round it and pass through they would probably make a clumsy dodge of it. That is why, as a rule, doors are constructed to open outward at a push.

ALIEN ACT EFFECTIVE

San Francisco, Aug. 11.—The alien land act passed by the last legislature, on which Japanese, either as individuals or corporations, may acquire land in California, went into effect yesterday. Individuals now holding land may continue to do so during their natural life, but may not devise it to Japanese heirs. Corporations formed before the new law went into effect may hold land for 50 years. A number of such corporations have recently been recorded.

Hogan's Ruling, If Sustained, Will Knock Out Referendums.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11. There will be no referendum on the Green workmen's compensation, the Warnes and Kilpatrick taxation laws, and there will be no initiation of a constitutional amendment for a smaller legislature if a legal opinion given by Attorney General Hogan is sustained.

In a ruling to Prosecuting Attorney Archer L. Phelps of Trumbull county, Hogan holds that each signer of a referendum petition must, for himself, write in the name of the township and county, or the name of the municipality, the street and number and the ward and precinct, and that no second party is authorized to fill in this information.

The effect of this ruling will be to nullify all three referendums and the initiated constitutional amendment proposal, because on all four petitions there are thousands of instances where the signer did nothing more than indite his name, the other information being written in either by the solicitor of the name or someone else.

While the bill is thrust to the front at the beginning of the week, it will not displace the tariff in the activities of the congressional week. The senate has reached some of the most important sections of the tariff revision bill and within the coming week the body is likely to find itself in the midst of the fights over the sugar, tariff, agricultural products and possibly the woolen schedules. These portions of the bill will bring out the first important activities of Senator LaFollette, and are counted upon to show the first definite alignment among the progressive Republican forces in support of substitutes for the Democratic tariff rates.

His Dose of Senna Tea.

"When my landlady tells me that anything is good for me," said the boarder, "I always recall the halcyon days of my boyhood. There were occasions then when, after eating profusely of green apples or other unripe vegetables, my works became disorganized and caused me intense distress. At such times my mother stepped into the imminent deadly breach with a remedy that was good for me.

"She had a partiality for senna tea, a beverage which tastes like the interior of a Russian jail. I had to swallow this fluid until it was necessary to put hoops on me so I could hold it all, and for several days thereafter my mother continued to flood my insides with senna tea, always insisting that it was good for me. Now that I am an aged man I love peace better than anything else, but I'll climb the frame of any gentleman who mentions senna tea to me."—Walt Mason in Chicago News.

PROBE DEEPLY FOR THE CAUSE

WILL ASK FOR NEW LAWS

State Officers Investigating the Buckeye Lake Disaster.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11. Radical changes in the regulations governing pleasure boats on Buckeye lake will be recommended to the next legislature by Superintendent John I. Miller of the state department of public works, as a result of the accident in which at least seven colored picnickers lost their lives Thursday, when the pleasure boat Wilda, with 30 passengers on board, struck a snag 200 feet from shore and sank. Superintendent Miller has commenced a rigid probe into the disaster.

At present the state rules governing the lake are enforced by one state deputy, E. L. Benner. It is generally admitted that one man is not enough to see that the boat owners obey the regulations against boat-crowding and it is probable that the force will be increased. The chief change which Mr. Miller will recommend to the legislature is that all boats operating on the lake be registered, with the names of their owners and operators and their capacities for passengers filed with the state department. At the present time they are merely licensed. Mr. Miller will also recommend that the rules which now govern the operation of boats on the lake be made state laws.

THEY DIDN'T MIND DIRT.

In the Days When Clothes Were Dyed, but Never Washed.

In the matter of the washing of clothes, not to say the washing of themselves, our ancestors were a trifle lax. The hundredth of the twelfth century must have held a position which was practically a sinecure, while it seems within the bounds of possibility that in those days she did not exist at all. There were, insooth, few garments which would stand washing, and the dyer was driving a brisk trade before the laundress was even thought of. A little dye must indeed have covered a multitude of spots.

In the days of the Tudors and Stuarts washing was a trifle more in evidence than formerly, but those articles which were permitted to find their way into the "buck pan"—as the washing tub used to be called—were few and far between. The wealthy of the middle ages got over the difficulty of obtaining clean underclothing with primitive simplicity by not wearing any, while the lower orders wore coarse woollen garments that would no doubt have "shrunk in the wash." To prevent any casualty of the kind they remained unwashed.

Velvets, taffetas and richly dyed silks, such as those worn by the nobility and gentry, could not, of course, be washed, and should any person of high degree be the possessor of a linen shirt it was a thing which was carefully made known to all his friends and relatives as being extremely in mode and a fit subject for congratulation, but washed it never was for fear of injuring its pristine beauty.—London Tatler.

NIX FOR "CINZY"

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11. The saloons of Cincinnati paid little attention to the second Sunday of the new liquor license law, as the back doors were opened as usual. It is said that the Anti-Saloon league gathered evidence, but no arrests were made. The bars attached to the hotels are the only ones known to have closed.

Big Timber of Guiana.

The greenheart of British Guiana is one of the most remarkable and useful trees in the world. Of the three varieties—yellow, black and mahogany—all are durable if cut at maturity and grow to such dimensions that logs can be had from eighteen to twenty-four inches square and seventy feet long. Greenheart is one of the eight woods esteemed as first class by the Lloyds, and admirable keelsons, piles and other ship timber, as well as submerged piling, dock gates, etc., are made from it. Owing to the great demand for the timbers and the reckless destruction of trees, the government has put a ban on cutting any which will not produce timbers eleven inches square.—Boston Globe.

Ballooning a Bonanza.

"Is it true that you farmers are hostile to balloonists?" ventured the young aeronaut who had descended in the barnyard.

"Why, no, stranger," laughed the old farmer as he came forward with a pitchfork. "We are always glad to have a balloon land on our place."

"I'm certainly glad to hear it."

"Yes, the last one that landed here came in handy. I used the ropes to tie the steers, packed corn in the basket and cut the gas bag up and made overalls for all the farm hands. Welcome, stranger, welcome!"—Chicago News.

PETITION PEDDLER'S TALE

Says He Was Asked to Implicate State Officials in Frauds.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—Attorney General Hogan spent several hours examining Arthur Unger of Cleveland, brought here under arrest from Lima, where there is a charge against him of passing a forged check. Unger declared he was waited upon in the Lima jail by men claiming to be detectives, who said they could get him off from the charge against him providing he would make affidavit that he had been solicited signatures to the referendum petition against the workmen's compensation act, at the suggestion of state officials bent on discrediting the work of the Ohio Equity association. Unger said the chief of police at Lima would substantiate his statements, and he will be sent back to that place, where further investigations will be prosecuted. Unger further stated he was given a job by W. H. McCaslin peddling petitions for referendum on the taxation acts.

A CHAIN OF FAME.

The Barrier Washington Erected Across the Hudson.

ARNOLD REMOVED ONE LINK.

Still the Monster Cable, in Spite of the Traitor's Act, Served Its Purpose and Blocked the Progress of the British Ships Up the River.

Somewhere in the bed of the Hudson river just off of West Point lies buried the larger part of a great iron chain, one of several ordered by General Washington during the Revolution to be constructed to prevent the enemy from ascending certain rivers to accomplish strategic points of vantage.

The British were making strenuous efforts to get hold of the Hudson in order to keep free communication with Canada by the additional channels of the St. Lawrence and Lake Champlain, and so it was determined to obstruct the Hudson by a great chain crossing from Fort Montgomery to Anthony's Nose.

But this was a failure. The chain parted within a week after it had been stretched, and, although subsequently raised and again placed, it was destroyed by the British.

Finally Washington decided to forge another and obstruct the river between West Point and Constitution Island, for here there was an abrupt change of course, and a heavy tide reduced the speed of any ship encountering it. Besides, the channel was 300 feet narrower at this crossing.

The forging of a chain such as was contemplated was then no small undertaking. Requests were secretly sent to various iron companies, and among the bids the most favorable came from the Sterling Iron works, situated in one of the most beautiful regions of the east, now within the fashionable domains of Tuxedo Park.

It was originally organized by Lord Sterling in 1751, a well known officer in the Revolutionary army, and continued in operation for more than a hundred years, meanwhile passing into the possession of Abel Noble, who married a niece of Peter Townsend and who now in association with the latter increased the capacity of the works which eventually came into the entire possession of Peter Townsend, a patriot and filled with the spirit of the time.

He finally obtained a few Welsh miners from Pennsylvania for the heavy handling in the forging and a number of men from Connecticut with their ox teams to do the hauling, and when the chain was ready it was drawn over the rough mountainous roads and through forests that had to be purposely cut in many places and so on to New Windsor, the nearest river point, and towed to West Point.

It was a strenuous undertaking from the very start. Each link weighed 300 pounds, was two feet in length and two and a quarter inches square, and each 100 feet was secured by a swivel, a twisting link, and at every thousand feet there was a clevis. The whole of this weighed 185 tons. When it was stretched across from West Point to Constitution Island it was buoyed up by large sixteen foot logs, and these were in turn held in place by the anchors.

The British made no specific attack on this then invincible obstacle, for it must be remembered that in those days there was no dynamite nor torpedoes, and none of the enemy's prowess would have pushed their way through such a barrier.

Although the British did not succeed in passing the big Hudson river chain, the American traitor Arnold gave it his particular attention and removed a link of it under the pretense of having it repaired for weakness at a nearby smithy. He wrote to Major Andre that it would not be replaced until the forts were surrendered to the British. But somehow the chain stood for its purpose, and Sir Henry Clinton did not attempt to relieve Burgoyne.

Parts of this celebrated chain are to be seen among various historical curios of prominent societies. A number of years ago Mayor Hewitt of New York, then the owner of a mine near the Sterling properties, became interested in finding out the whereabouts of the remaining portions of the chain. A large part of it lies at the bottom of the river, about thirty tons were in various possessions, and at West Point there are thirteen links, and a staple placed near the spot where the chain was anchored and a plate tells of the date and place of forging—Boston Herald.

No Primaries For Her.

"Are you going to the primaries to night, Ethelinda?" asked the husband of his suffragette wife.

"Indeed I am not," replied the lady. "Do you suppose that after I have attended the postgraduate courses in political science for two years I'm going to waste my time on those primary classes? I guess not! They're good enough for you men, but we women have progressed beyond that!"—Harper's Weekly.

Two Failures.

"I married for beauty alone," said a presumably happy benedict to an old chum. "And yet you remind me of a friend of mine who married for money," was the rejoinder. "How's that?" "He didn't get it," said the chum sarcastically.

The preservation of health is a duty few seem conscious that there is such a thing as physical morality.—Spencer

COLORADO'S GOVERNOR TO PLAY HOST TO ALL THE OTHER GOVERNORS

LEARNING JIJUTSU.

One Lesson is to Be Strangled and Then Resuscitated.

Mastery of the art of Jijutsu requires a drilling such as no boxer, fencer, runner or rower would need to undertake. The mind "must permeate the entire body from the head to the extremities," and to this end the body must first be brought under absolute control. The pupil is inured to the two extremes of heat and cold, and the virtue of perseverance is cultivated by special exercises for the summer and special exercises for the winter, says the author of "The Fighting Spirit of Japan." For the former the hottest month of the year, August, and the hottest time of the day, from 1 p. m. on, are chosen, and for the latter, commencing in January, the pupils start wrestling at 4 in the morning and keep it up until 7 or 8.

Two great competitions are held in the year, and in these historic contests "it is quite a common thing for 400 couples to participate." "Speaking from long personal experience," says Mr. Harrison, "I can state that the 'shobu' is a genuine mental as well as physical ordeal for the participant. In the case of the more advanced students, who come on at a later hour, there is all the horror of anticipation to be contended against. As one enters the building the only sounds to greet the ear are the dull and sickening thuds which proclaim successive falls, the deep breathing and panting of the contestants and the staccato tones of the umpires as they declare victory or defeat."

For the student who wins his bout and continues his progress until he passes as a pupil teacher there is another test of courage and endurance. He must be strangled and resuscitated. "The idea at the bottom of this seemingly cold blooded procedure is both to steel the victim's nerves and round off his experience, as it were, and to afford the newly promoted members an opportunity of putting into practice certain forms of 'kiwaps' (the system of resuscitation, which are demonstrated by an expert teacher before strangulation takes place.)"

QUEER FORM OF INSANITY.

Why Some Men Are Angels Abroad and Demons at Home.

There is a form of insanity, so well recognized that wills have been broken on the strength of it, that takes the form of brutality to those of one's own family when at the same time its victim is kind, benevolent and charming to all outside. This is known to alienists and lawyers as "okikimnia." Historic cases of it are those of Dean Swift, Mrs. John Wesley and the father of Frederick the Great.

In women it generally takes the form of an unreasoning and baseless jealousy, leading them to make life a burden to their husbands, to sulk perversely at home while shining in society or spending much time in religious devotion or in works of benevolence.

In men okikimnia takes the form of active brutality to their wives and children. It is often accompanied by continuous and exhausting remorse, under the terrible consciousness that they are torturing those they really love. But they are unable to shake off the habit. Sometimes, when the object of their persecution is dead, they themselves become actually insane. Such was the case with Dean Swift after the death of Stella, the victim of his brutality, when he paid the penalty in pathetic alternations of delirium and melancholy.

So well is this form of insanity recognized that the courts will throw out the will of a man who has manifested it if this will cuts off his natural heirs.—New York World.

Mrs. Edwin Gould Says Present Extremes in Women's Dress Is Demoralizing to Nation's Girls

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Edwin Gould is one of the few wealthy women of the country who believes that the extremes of prevailing fashions are immodest and demoralizing to the young girls of the nation. With the indorsement of Mrs. Gould as a starter the Chicago Woman's club is preparing to inaugurate a nation wide movement for dress reform, which will include the practical feature of appealing directly to manufacturers and modistes with a view to having them discourage the prevailing style of tight and slit skirts, which have largely eliminated petticoats as part of a woman's wearing apparel. Mrs. Gould, who was here on her way home from a western trip, said: "I expect to see a revolution among women themselves against the immodestly slit and the overtight skirt. The dress reform that seems to be due will, I think, carry the women of the country back to normal and conservative modes. I expect to see a return of the reasonably wide skirt, which is now considered out of date. Most of the women of my acquaintance agree with me that it is time to revert to the old lines in dress, with such modification as good taste may dictate."

Rosenthal killed himself to avoid arrest on a warrant charging him with contributing to delinquency of boys.

THE CHAFING DISH.

Antiquity of This Now Popular Cooking Utensil.

The chafing dish is not a utensil of modern invention. Looking backward over history's pages, many allusions are made to its use. Among the ruins of Pompeii have been found bronze chafing dishes of unique designs, and Mommsen, in his "Römische Geschichte," asserts that in those days a well wrought cooking machine came to cost more than an estate. Louis XV. took much delight in cooking and, according to Goncourt, often amused himself by making "quintessential steaks in silver pans." The palate of Louis XIV. was often tickled by "piping hot dishes brought in on a chafing dish."

Napoleon Bonaparte, when laying down the affairs of war and enjoying home life for a short period, cooked in a silver chafing dish an omelet for the enjoyment of the empress and himself. Mme. Recamier, the beautiful and intellectual society leader, used the chafing dish, while Mme. de Staël, the greatest woman in literary history, when exiled from her beloved France took with her the chafing dish.

We of today are doing much to keep alive the true spirit of hospitality by bringing the chafing dish into popular use.—Woman's Home Companion.

DAZED THE MOROS

FUN IN FRAMING A TREATY.

General Bates Had a Sort of Circus on His Hands While Negotiating With the Filipino Potentate For the Transfer of the Islands to Uncle Sam.

Few treaties ever were negotiated in more interesting and ludicrous circumstances than those that attended the one made in 1899 between General Bates and the sultan of Moro.

When, after much dillydallying, the Filipino potentate was finally induced to come on board the Charleston, the general's headquarters, every effort was made to put him in good humor. He and his suit partook freely of drink, but refused all food as coming from the hands of Christians. Yet they were in no danger of starving, for they had been careful to bring with them enormous sacks of rice.

When the guests were conducted over the man-of-war they marveled at its mechanical mysteries. At the suggestion of an officer the sultan touched an electric button, and instantly a Chinese servant appeared. Again, in response to a suggestion, he touched the button twice, and a United States marine stood in the doorway.

From that time every ornament aboard the ship that in any way suggested an electric button was pushed by the sultan or by some member of his suit. An officer conducted him into a dark room and showed him how to turn the button that adjusted the lighting apparatus. The flood of light that resulted left him with gaping mouth and dilated eyes.

His wonderment continued to grow throughout the afternoon, and whenever an opportunity afforded he repeated the performance of pushing electric buttons and turning electric lights on and off. He even went so far, when he thought himself unwatched, to try to appropriate one of the lighted bulbs.

When ice water was brought in the lump of ice in the pitcher was immediately seized by his royal highness and as quickly dropped to the floor. As the lump gradually diminished in size the sultan's party looked at it in suspicion.

Mr. Shuck suggested to the sultan that he order one of his men aloft and recall him when he reached the crow's nest. The first order was easy to execute, but when a return was ordered, his voice having failed to carry, a megaphone was brought, and into this the sultan shouted for the man to return under penalty of instant death. Immediately the thoroughly frightened Moro dropped to the deck. The ruler took the dimensions of the strange mouthpiece and declared that he would make one for himself.

The most amusing incident occurred when the sultan upon invitation fired a Colt automatic gun. The explosion of the first discharge appeared to root him to the spot. His hands gripped the trigger, with the result that shells continued to pepper the surrounding waters.

Again and again the royal gunner begged the officers to stop the action of the infernal machine, not knowing that the means of doing it lay in his own hands. So thoroughly frightened was he that it was impossible to make him loosen his hold, and an officer ordered the tape cut, thus stopping the supply of ammunition.

The one pounder was next brought into play, but the sultan refused to go near one of the eight inch guns, which he had been invited to fire.

Meantime the knives of his attendants had been taken to the dynamo room and charged with electricity, with the result that the suit were of the opinion that the evil one himself was aboard. They begged and implored to be taken ashore and, quite forgetful of their bags of rice, scurried down the gang ladder.

At night the searchlight was brought to bear upon the Moro town of Bus Bus, and the instant desertion of the town followed, even the dogs leaving it. For many weeks thereafter no amount of persuasion could induce the inhabitants to return.

General Bates made his headquarters in the town of Jolo, and thither the sultan and his staff came on several occasions to discuss the treaty. Subsequently they made another visit to the Charleston. This time the mother of the sultan accompanied the party, and during the visit a phonograph owned by one of the officers rendered selections for the entertainment of the guests.

The aged dame sat entranced throughout the performance, and it was not until the time came for her son to affix his signature to the treaty that she awakened. On one condition only would she permit the sultan to sign—the phonograph must become hers at once.

For a time that phonograph threatened to be the means of upsetting all amicable taking over of the islands, but fortunately the owner was prevailed upon to part with the machine in the interests of his government, and the treaty was executed.—E. C. Rost in Century Magazine.

GROOVED EYESTONES.

South American eyestones are tiny objects that look like flat, round bits of polished bone. Upon one side of each stone there are numerous concentric grooves.

If an eyestone is placed in vinegar or a weak solution of lime water it behaves very much as if it were alive. It moves slowly about in various directions and altogether conducts itself in a most mysterious manner. This strange activity has given rise among ignorant and superstitious persons to the notion that the eyestone has life and "loves to swim."

As a matter of fact, of course, an eyestone has no more life than a paving stone. It is composed of calcareous material, and in lime water or certain other liquids it is made to move about by the carbonic acid gas caused by the contact of the stone and the liquid.

These curious little stones were once the "front doors," so to speak, of the shells of a tiny mollusk that lives along the South American coasts. The calcareous formation occurs at the tip end of the mollusk, and when it draws itself into its shell to escape danger or to go to sleep that tip fits so snugly into the mouth of the shell that it affords the creature perfect protection against its enemies.

The natives collect these little mollusks for no other purpose than to get the eyestones. Sailors on the vessels engaged in the fruit trade with those regions get the stones, bring them to the United States and sell them to druggists.

The stones are often used for removing foreign substances from the eye when the services of a physician or an oculist are not to be had conveniently. Many persons think that before using one you must put it in vinegar to give it "life," but the notion is absurd. You need only insert the stone at the outer corner of the eye with the grooved side next to the lid. The pressure of the eyeball moves the stone about in the eye. The grooves collect and retain the foreign matter, and when the stone has accomplished its circuit it emerges at the end of the eye next the nose.

There are other eyestones. In the head of the common crawfish there are two little bones just behind and beneath the eyes. These bones resemble the South American eyestones, but the fish bones are wholly smooth instead of being grooved on one side. These crawfish bones have been used in the west as eyestones, but they are not so efficacious as those from South America.—Youth's Companion.

New York, Aug. 11.—Daubert, the crack first baseman of the Brooklyn, is a tower of strength for his team. In the beginning of the season, Daubert reached fifth place in the league batting average, with a percentage of .352.

DAUBERT

CANNOT STOP PASSING BATTERS

Bases on Balls Hurt Playing of Star Men.

NO SCHEME TO PREVENT IT

Spectators Annoyed by Latter Day Feature of Almost Every Big League Ball Contest—Considered a Necessary Part of the Game—Cobb, Jackson and Baker Victims.

Baseball fans have forced big league club owners to pay their stars bigger salaries; they have forced them to hire and fire managers; they have forced everything possible in the way of quick action and snappy ball games, but there is one thing that the fans can't do, and that is to make a pitcher pitch to a batter if he wants to pass him. Crowds have hissed indignantly, they have howled and threatened to mob the pitcher, but he has thrown four impossible ones to the batter and passed his man.

Passing good hitters purposely when there are men on bases ahead of them waiting to score has been a thorn in the side of every fan for years. All kinds of schemes have been suggested to make it impossible to do this, but nobody has been smart enough as yet to think up any system whereby pitchers could be forced to pitch to their batters.

Hurts Good Batters.

Cobb, Jackson and recently Frank Baker are the swiftest in the American league whose value to their clubs has been diminished most regularly by the refusal of pitchers to put the ball where they can hit it in crises.

Hitting is one of the most enjoyable parts of the game, and it detracts much from the pleasure of a contest to see a couple of men get on only to have a favorite slugger walked on purpose.

Following Cobb, as does Bobby Veach, places a greater burden upon Robert than if he were in any other place in the batting order, as far as hitting in a pinch comes. Every time that Tyrus is presented with a daily countersigned pass it means that Veach must hit in the pinch that Cobb escaped.

If the burden bearer makes good the greater is the praise coming to him. But if he falls down there is a feeling of unattonable resentment just as if the umpire had robbed the Tigers of the contest.

Manager Jennings of the Tigers has said that there is no scheme whereby the passing of men purposely can be prohibited. They do it openly now because it is considered part of baseball.
